Gov. Crothers Makes Many Minor Appointments.

IMPORTANT JOBS UNFILLED

State Places Must Be Taken Care of Not Later Than To-day, Under Ex-County Places Filled-Justices of the Peace Are Selected.

Special to The Washington Herald. Annapolis, Md., Feb. 18 .- Just at the present time interest among Maryland's lawmakers, as well as the Democratic leaders and politicans, centers in the forthcoming appointments by Gov. Croth-

The governor has already sent in the civil appointments for most of the counties and Baltimore City, and he has also made a number for the State at large. The most important offices, however, are yet to be filled, and under the law all appointments will have to be made by to-morrow.

There were busy scenes about the executive offices to-night. The leaders held final conferences as to the appointments to be made. The senate met in special session to receive additional nominations from the governor, but those who had expected the list of appointees for the more important jobs were disappointed.

Only One of Importance. The only one of importance sent in was that of Charles J. Fox, for chief of the bureau of industrial statistics. The State board of undertakers was named as follows: Messrs. George W. Mowen, Henry W. Mears, George Schilling, Henry C. Weidefeld, Henry Vinsinger, and Charles F. Evans. The rest of the list was made up of the civil appointments for Montgomery County and about 150 notaries public for

Richmond, Va., Feb. 18.-As guests of the general assembly of Virginia, the members of the Maryland Oyster Commission were elaborately entertained at a banquet to-night at the Jefferson Hotel. The members of the commission, repre joint session all day, were tendered an old-fashioned oyster roast on the river this afternoon by the Tidewater delegation of the Virginia assembly. At the head of the table at the Jefferson Hotel isting Law-Many Montgomery banquet sat Gov. Swanson. Covers had been laid for fifty people. The toasts following the banquet were replete with oratory. At the conclusion of the conference of the joint session this afternoon the committee representing the two legislatures unanimously agreed upon a bill to be presented to the general assembly of each State. The bill, which is to be effective from its passage, goes thoroughly into the question of the protection of the oyster roduction in the Potomae River, and provides a heavy penalty for violation of the law. It is along similar lines of that proposed two years ago, but which failed of passage because of lack of time for onsideration.

The members of the Maryland commis sion will leave for Annapolis to-morrow
